Non-GAAP Financial Information

This financial release refers to Adjusted EBITDA, which is a non-GAAP financial measure. Cision defines Adjusted EBITDA as net income (loss), determined in accordance with U.S. GAAP, for the period presented, before interest expense, income tax benefit (provision), and depreciation and amortization expense, further adjusted to exclude the following items: (a) acquisition related fees and expenses;; (b) deferred revenue fair-market-value adjustment; (c) sponsor management fees; (d) stock-based compensation expense; (e) (gain) or loss on subsidiary asset sales; (f) operating (profit) or loss of subsidiary asset sales; and (g) unrealized (gain) or loss on foreign currency translation. Management believes that this non-GAAP financial measure is an important indicator of the ongoing operating profit of Cision and provides an additional metric for comparability between reporting periods that allows for a more accurate analysis of underlying trends because this financial measure provides a view of our operating profitability that excludes items that management believes are not reflective of core operating performance, such as stock-based compensation and acquisition related costs. As a result, this non-GAAP measure is provided to supplement investors' overall understanding of, and an enhanced level of transparency into, Cision's financial performance. This measure should be considered in addition to results prepared in accordance with GAAP. A reconciliation of GAAP net income to Adjusted EBITDA for the periods presented can be found below.
